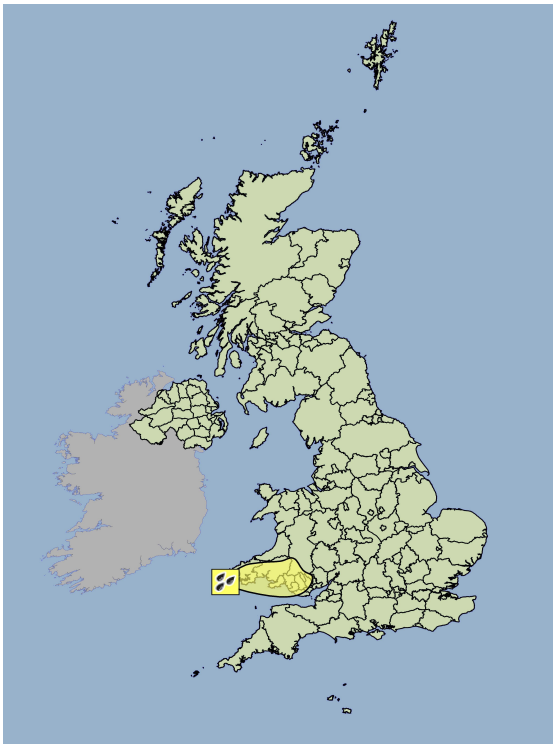
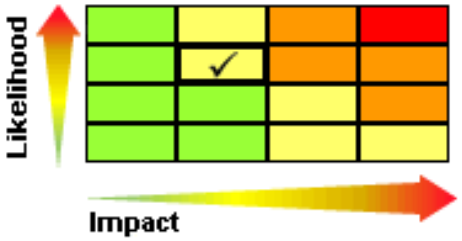
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A showery, broadly southwesterly airstream will affect England and Wales during Saturday and onwards into Sunday. Within this airstream some more organised zones of persistent rain are likely to develop and affect England and Wales at times. Parts of South Wales in particular look likely to be affected by some of the most frequent bouts of showery rain during this period.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 08:00 on Sat, 09th Jan 2016 until 12:00 on Sun, 10th Jan 2016

Outbreaks of showery rain, heavy at times, will affect parts of Wales during Saturday and Sunday. These outbreaks could locally produce rainfall accumulations of 10-20 mm in a relatively short period of time. Given saturated ground conditions please be aware that this could lead to some local flooding and disruption to transport.
